

Maxime Lefebvre, born in 1967, is a French diplomat, currently seconded at ESCP Business School (since 2022) as professor of International and European Affairs, scientific director of the specialized Master in Science “International Business & Diplomacy”, and co-director of the Geopolitics Institute. He is a former student of the National School of Administration (ENA), a graduate of the École des Hautes Études Commerciales (HEC), and of Sciences Po Paris. He also has a Master’s Degree in History (Paris Sorbonne) and a Ph.D. in Political science / International relations (Paris Panthéon Assas University). He began his career at the French Ministry of Foreign Affairs in 1994 and was posted in Mr Védérine’s private office, in the French Embassy in Berlin and in the French permanent representation to the EU. He was Director of international affairs in the ENA, deputy director of the policy planning staff of the French MFA, Ambassador to the OSCE (Vienna), Ambassador for Cross Border Cooperation in the French MFA. He has also worked in the French think tank Institut français des relations internationales (IFRI) and has written numerous books and articles about European Policy and International Relations.