

At the Chair of Management Control (Prof. Dr. Erik Strauss) at ESCP Business School, Campus Berlin is a position available from 01.04.2025 or later:

Student Assistant (m/f/d)

Research Profile | 10 working hours per week

The position is temporary and the duration is 6 months with possible extension.

At our research chair, we're exploring how artificial intelligence is transforming business leadership, decision-making, and organizational management. Our focus? The human dimension of this technological revolution.

What makes our research unique

- Investigating AI's real impact on how organizations function and compete
- Bridging technical innovation with practical business applications
- Working at the intersection of technology, psychology, and organizational behavior
- Being part of one of Europe's leading business schools

Who we're looking for

Ambitious, creative students eager to:

- Participate in cutting-edge research that shapes tomorrow's business practices
- Collaborate directly with industry partners on real-world projects
- Develop valuable research skills that enhance your academic and professional profile
- Join a dynamic team tackling questions that matter

This is your opportunity to contribute to groundbreaking work while building impressive credentials at a prestigious European institution.

Requirements

- Bachelor or Master's student during the entire period of the work contract
- Very good written and spoken English (German is a plus but not a must)
- Team player, reliable, responsible, showing initiative, and self-motivating
